Procedure for Making Claims of Copyright Infringement

Visimon respects the intellectual property rights of others, and we ask our individuals using Visimon Web sites to do the same. If you believe that your copyrighted work has been copied and is accessible on an Visimon Web site in a way that constitutes copyright infringement, please send a Notice to our Copyright Agent providing the following information:

- The electronic or physical signature of the owner of the copyright or the person authorized to act on the owner's behalf
- A description of the copyrighted work that you claim has been infringed and a description of the infringing activity
- A description of where the material that you claim is infringing is located, such as the URL where it is posted
- Your name, address, telephone number, and email address
- A statement by you that you have a good faith belief that the disputed use of the material is not authorized by the copyright owner, its agent, or the law
- A statement by you, made under penalty of perjury, that the above information in your Notice is accurate and that you are the copyright owner or are authorized to act on the copyright owner's behalf

Reporting Piracy of Visimon Products

If you believe that Visimon software or documentation is being copied, sold or distributed without licenses or permission from Visimon, please contact the Legal Department at support@Visimon.com.

Buying Visimon Software Through Online Auctions

Much of the Visimon software sold through online auctions is pirated or otherwise unauthorized. In addition to being sold illegally, such software may contain bugs, viruses or other errors that could seriously damage your computer systems.

Visimon makes virtually all of its most popular software freely available for trial downloads in the Visimon Store or through free membership in the Visimon Technology Network.

Use of Visimon Screenshots

Visimon's software programs are copyrighted materials owned by Visimon. Screenshots constituting an image of an individual screen display from any Visimon software, application or service are protected by copyright. (See Visimon's Trademark Guidelines for questions about use of our company name and logos).

If you want to use more than ten (10) screenshots in a published piece, such as a book or white paper, you will require a formal permission letter from Visimon. Please contact our Copyright team at support@Visimon.com with information about your work, the screenshots needed, and a sample chapter for our review. We may approve your request if the screenshot content does not constitute more than 25% of the content of your work.

If you want to use ten (10) or fewer screenshots in a published piece, you may do so provided that you agree and adhere to the following terms:

1. This permission constitutes a fully revocable, nonexclusive license and is not a transfer of ownership, title or any other right or interest in Visimon's screenshots. Visimon may terminate permission at any time by notifying you of the termination of permission for your particular use. Visimon may revise or withdraw this general permission at any time without notice.

2. Your use may not directly or indirectly state or imply Visimon sponsorship, affiliation or endorsement of your product, service, or published piece.
3. Screenshots must be reproduced in their entirety, and you may not alter screenshots in any way except to proportionally resize them. All added commentary and analysis relating to Visimon screenshots must be clearly attributable to you and not to Visimon.
4. This permission does not apply to any Visimon screenshots that are from beta products or other products that are subject to non-disclosure obligations or that have not yet been commercially released.
5. Visimon screenshots may not be incorporated into: comparative advertising; obscene, pornographic or sexually explicit materials; or materials which are, in Visimon's sole opinion, disparaging or defamatory of Visimon, its products, or any other person or entity.
6. Visimon expressly disclaims all warranties of any kind, whether express or implied, including, but not limited to, the implied warranties of merchantability, fitness for a particular purpose and non-infringement in connection with your use of Visimon screenshots. Your use of Visimon screenshots is at your own discretion and risk.
